Free Movies at the NIM!
Slate of 16 kid favorites fills June and July

Columbus, Georgia – May 25, 2017: The NIM Kids Summer Film Fest is back! Families can enjoy a summer full of film favorites at the best price ever: FREE! The series runs June 6 through July 27 at the National Infantry Museum’s Giant Screen Theater.

Join Elsa, Ariel, Nemo, Dory and dozens of other cherished characters every Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday at 11 a.m. and 2 p.m. for digital screenings of 16 different family-friendly movies on the region’s largest screen. At least one screening each week will be sensory-friendly, to accommodate kids bothered by loud noises and total darkness.

Admission is free to both children and adults; arrive early before the theater fills up! The concessions stand will be open for purchasing snacks and light lunches, including pizza, hot dogs, nachos, popcorn, candy, soda and ice cream.

Important security notes: Bags larger than 11” x 6” x 15” are not permitted. Bag checks and wand scans will be conducted to ensure guest safety. Small clear bags will be provided by security personnel for your most necessary items. No outside food or drinks are allowed.

Before or after the movie, take time to visit the museum’s amazing collection of artifacts covering more than 240 years of Infantry history, or take a tour of World War II Company Street. The National Infantry Museum is educational, inspirational, and entertaining. And it’s a great place to escape the summer heat!
